OPPOSITION OF OFFICIAL
COMMITTEE OF UNSECURED
CREDITORS TO TRUSTEE’S
MOTION FOR ORDER
AUTHORIZING RULE 2004
EXAMINATION OF ACCOUNTANT
CRAIG L. GREENE, WITH CERTIFICATE OF SERVICE

Hearing Date: September 6, 2011
Hearing Time: 11:00 a.m.

18 The Committee opposes the trustee’s motion for an order authorizing a Rule 2004
19 examination of the Committee’s accountant, Craig L. Greene (Ct. Dkt. #368, filed Aug. 12, 2011; 20 Trustee’s Decl., Ct. Dkt. #369). The trustee also seeks authority to “review [Mr. Greene’s] report,
21 Mr. Greene’s work papers, the documents Mr. Green was provided so he could prepare his report,
22 and other relevant documents” specified in the motion (Ct. Dkt. #368 at 2:25-26). The Committee
23 does not object to production of papers or communications provided by Debtor or Mr. Polhill. But it 24 does object to the disclosure of Mr. Greene’s papers and report, as well as his impressions.

25 INTRODUCTION

26 The Trustee misstates the Committee’s objection to the request for Mr. Greene’s report. The 27 Trustee states that the report has not been provided because it is subject to a confidentiality
28 agreement. While there is a confidentiality agreement, the Committee declines to provide it because

1 it is privileged. The Committee repeatedly has asserted the privilege in response to requests from the 2 Trustee. The Trustee has failed to recognize the privilege, responding that he is willing to enter into 3 a confidentiality agreement or protective order to obtain the report. The Committee has replied each 4 time that the proposal is not acceptable because such disclosure may waive the privilege.

5 The Committee has preserved the privilege, declining to provide the report to Debtor, Mr.
6 Polhill or anyone else. The Committee also asserted the privilege in response to an investigative 7 subpoena issued by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. The Committee will not now
8 waive the privilege in response to a subpoena from the Trustee seeking Mr. Greene's reports or his 9 evaluations. Of course, the Committee will comply with a final order for the report or Mr. Greene's
10 testimony. But absent an order, the Committee will not waive the privilege.

11 Although the Committee may preserve the privilege for any reason, the Committee also is 12 unwilling to do so because of suggestions of litigation by Debtor and/or Mr. Polhill. The Committee
13 has been advised that if the report contains financial information about Mr. Polhill, the Committee
14 may be in breach of the confidentiality agreement. The Committee denies any such breach. Still, the 15 Committee will not voluntarily release the report and potentially subject itself to contested litigation.

16 Finally, the discovery of Mr. Greene's report and thoughts are inappropriate under Rule 7026.
17 The Trustee is just as capable of assessing Debtor's records and statements, either on his own since 18 he is a certified public accountant and experienced trustee in commercial bankruptcies, or with a 19 retained accountant. Trustee's counsel has advised that he and the Trustee reviewed Debtor's records 20 and interviewed Mr. Polhill and his assistant, Marilyn Donegan; they also have advised that they 21 have left Debtor's records in Debtor's possession. The Trustee is making his own independent
22 evaluation of Debtor. He does not need access to the work and thoughts of the Committee's 23 accountant, potentially invalidating the Committee's privileges against state law claims.

24 DISCUSSION AND ANALYSIS

25 A. Mr. Greene's report, work papers and thoughts are privileged and not subject to discovery

26 The Court approved the employment of McGovern & Greene LLP as accountants for the 27 Committee (Ct. Dkt. #163). Craig Greene, a founding partner of the accounting firm and the 28 accountant assigned to the Committee, has been licensed as a certified public accountant by the State

1 of Nevada since 2008 (and by the State of Illinois since 1979) (Ct. Dkt. #150, Decl. of C. Greene).
2 Mr. Greene met with Mr. Polhill, reviewed records from Debtor and Mr. Polhill, and conducted his 3 own independent research regarding Debtor. Mr. Greene then prepared a report for the Committee's 4 consideration, with a discussion of his factual research and evaluations about the Debtor.

5 The Committee asserts the accountant-client privilege and the attorney-client privilege over 6 the report and Mr. Greene's testimony. The arguments elaborate on the Committee's opposition to 7 Paul Hazell's motion to file the report under seal with the court (Ct. Dkt. #256, filed April 4, 2011).

8 The Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure prohibit discovery of privileged matters: "Parties 9 may obtain discovery regarding any nonprivileged matter." Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1)), inc. by ref. by 10 Fed. R. Bankr. P. 9014(c), 7026. "The privilege operates to prevent the disclosure itself." In re Lott,
11 424 F.3d 446, 451-52 (6th Cir. 2005). As the California Court of Appeals held, "The privilege is not 12 vitiated by the fact that its exercise may occasionally suppress relevant evidence. ... [T]he search of 13 truth must sometimes give way to the purposes of the privilege." Venture Law Group v. Superior 14 Court, 118 Cal. App. 4th 96, 105 (Cal. Ct. App. 2004) (quotation omitted).

15 1. The accountant-client privilege should be applied in these circumstances

16 The Committee recognizes that under Federal Rule of Evidence 501, there are limitations on 17 the application of a state-law accountant-client privilege. Couch v. United States, 409 U.S. 322, 335
18 (1973); United States v. Arthur Young & Co., 465 U.S. 805, 817-18 (1984). However, in the 19 bankruptcy context, courts generally have declined to apply the accountant-client privilege when 20 debtor seeks to shield financial records. See In re International Horizons, Inc., 689 F.2d 996 (11th 21 Cir. 1982); Peat, Marwick v. Creditor's Cte., 65 B.R. 886 (N.D.N.Y. 1986); In re Oxford Royal 22 Mushroom Prod., Inc., 41 B.R. 863 (Bankr. E.D. Pa. 1984); In re GHR Cos., 41 B.R. 655 (Bankr. D.
23 Mass. 1984); In re Mori, 1 B.R. 265 (Bankr. S.D. Fla. 1979).

24 The facts at hand warrant the application of the state-law privilege to prevent disclosure of the 25 accountant's report. In this instance, it is not the debtor seeking to shield his own financials. It is a 26 privilege asserted by the Committee, which has worked diligently to determine the best way to 27 maximize any potential return for creditors in this case. As part of that process, it reviewed financial 28 records concerning the debtor and its principal, subject to Court's order limiting access to the records

1 reviewed by the Committee (Ct. Dkt. #164) and the confidentiality agreement (required by Debtor
2 under the order), a draft of which is attached by Mr. Hazell to his prior motion (Ct. Dkt. #255). The 3 Committee asserts the accountant-client privilege to prevent the disclosure of its accountant report.
4 To allow its introduction otherwise would undermine the investigative and evaluation functions
5 necessarily performed by creditor committees.

6 The Committee satisfies the requirements to invoke the accountant-client privilege under 7 Chapter 49 of the Nevada Revised Statutes:

8 A client has a privilege to refuse to disclose, and to prevent any other 9 person from disclosing, confidential communications:

- 10 1. Between the client or the client's representative and the client's 11 accountant or the representative of the client's accountant.
- 12 2. Between the client's accountant and the accountant's representative.
- 13 3. Made for the purpose of facilitating the rendition of professional 14 accounting services to the client, by the client or the client's accountant
15 to an accountant representing another in a matter of common interest

16 NRS 49.185. The statutes further state that "A communication is 'confidential' if it is not intended to 17 be disclosed to third persons other than those to whom disclosure is in furtherance of the rendition of 18 professional accounting services to the client or those reasonably necessary for the transmission of 19 the communication." NRS 49.155. The privilege may be asserted by the client, NRS 49.195(1), 20 which includes an "association or other organization or entity, either public or private, who is 21 rendered professional accounting services by an accountant." NRS 49.145.

22 The Committee satisfies all the requirements to invoke the accountant-client privilege to 23 preclude the disclosure of its accountant's report by Mr. Hazell. The Committee is a client eligible to 24 employ an accountant, and the accountant is employed to render professional accountant services in 25 evaluating the debtor's financial records. These facts are evidenced by the Committee's application 26 to employ McGovern & Greene (Ct. Dkt. #146). Therefore, Mr. Greene's report falls within the 27 accountant-client privilege under NRS Chapter 49.

28 2. The attorney-client privilege should be applied in these circumstances

Alternatively, the Committee requests that Mr. Greene's report be determined to be privileged under the attorney-client privilege. Courts have recognized that the attorney-client privilege "can

1 extend to accountants when the accountant's role is to clarify communications between an attorney
2 and a client.” Silverman v. Hidden Villa Ranch (In re Suprema Specialties, Inc.), Case No. 04-01078
3 (JMP), 2007 WL 1964852, *4 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. July 2, 2007) (Peck, J.), citing, e.g., United States v.
4 Kovel, 296 F.2d 918, 924 (2d Cir. 1961), and United States v. Akert, 169 F.3d 136, 139 (2d Cir.
5 1999). Judge Clark adopted Judge Peck’s opinion and held that that the attorney-client privilege can 6 cover the work performed by an accountant hired directly by a debtor in the bankruptcy case.
7 Osherow v. Vann (In re Hardwood P-G, Inc.), 403 B.R. 445, 457-59 (Bankr. W.D. Tex. 2009). The 8 concept has been applied within the Ninth Circuit. United States v. ChevronTexaco Corp., 241 F.
9 Supp.2d 1065, 1071-72 (N.D. Cal. 2002).

10 Given that Debtor effectively was just a holding company for investments and loans to other 11 businesses, all funded by the unsecured creditors in this case, it was critically necessary for the 12 Committee to retain an accountant to assist it and Committee counsel evaluate Debtor’s financial 13 records and proposals for reorganization in this case. Without the accountant’s intimate work with 14 counsel, the Committee would not have been able to make educated decisions about the matters in 15 this case. The Committee determined that it must employ an accountant to interpret the financial 16 details of Debtor’s records and proposals before the Committee could respond to the legal matters
17 raised in the bankruptcy case. Therefore, the Committee requests the Court find that the accountant’s 18 report is subject to the attorney-client privilege.

19 3. The Committee has preserved the privilege

20 The Committee has never authorized the distribution of Mr. Greene’s report or waived the 21 privilege to permit its distribution. See Decl. of Committee Chairman Thomas L. Davis III, filed
22 contemporaneously. The Committee asserted the privilege as part of its objection to an investigative 23 subpoena issued by the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Ex. 1, 6/3/11 Bubala-Blau Ltr.

24 Notwithstanding the Committee’s privilege and its refusal to waive it, the Committee is aware 25 of two instances when the report was transmitted outside of its control. First, the report was 26 anonymously mailed to the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. SEC counsel Marc Blau and 27 Sarah Moyed contacted undersigned counsel upon receipt of the report; they stated they had not 28 reviewed it and mailed it to undersigned counsel. This situation was discussed in the Committee’s

1 objection to the SEC's subpoena for the report. Ex. 1 at 2, ¶ 5. The Committee has not determined
2 who mailed the report to the SEC.

3 The second instance occurred after the Court authorized Committee member Paul Hazell to 4 file the report and other papers under seal. Debtor's counsel Kaaran Thomas requested the sealed
5 papers from Mr. Hazell's counsel, Lenard Schwartz. Mr. Schwartz's office provided all of the 6 sealed documents to Ms. Thomas, including Mr. Greene's report. Undersigned counsel was not 7 aware of the request or transmittal until advised of them by Ms. Thomas on August 11, 2011. Ms.
8 Thomas also stated that she has not reviewed the report.

9 These unauthorized transmittals of the report do not destroy the Committee's privilege.
10 When an entity holds the privilege, the privilege can be waived only by the entity's management.
11 The unauthorized disclosure of privilege material by individuals does not constitute a waiver of the 12 privilege. The Ninth Circuit adopted that position when it held that a former employee "lacked 13 authority to waive the corporation's attorney-client privilege." United States v. Chen, 99 F.3d 1495, 14 1502 (9th Cir. 1996). The Circuit applied the U.S. Supreme Court's holding that "[T]he power to 15 waive the corporate attorney-client privilege rests with the corporation's management and is 16 normally exercised by its officers and directors." Id., quoting CFTC v. Weintraub, 471 U.S. 343, 348
17 (1985). The Circuit also recognized that "An employee must generally keep an employer's 18 confidences." Id., citing Restatement (Second) of Agency § 395 (1958). Therefore, when corporation 19 management did not authorize the disclosure of privilege materials, the individual "could not and did 20 not waive the privilege" held by the corporation. Id. The Circuit's holding is consistent with 21 California law, holding that those "in their individual capacities as directors, officers, and majority 22 shareholders" are not clients of an attorney retained by an entity, and thus cannot waive the entity's
23 privilege. Venture Law Group v. Superior Court, 118 Cal. App. 4th 96, 105 (Cal. Ct. App. 2004).

24 The Circuit's rationale in Chen has been applied in the district and around the country. See,
25 e.g., Montgomery v. eTrepid Techs., LLC, 548 F. Supp.2d 1175 (D. Nev. 2008) (Cooke, M.J.)
26 (holding former member not entitled to assert corporate privilege); Kelly v. CSE Safeguard Ins. Co., 27 Case No. 2:08-cv-KJD-RJJ, 2011 WL 3494235, *3 (D. Nev. Aug. 10, 2011) (Johnston, M.J.) (agent
28 of corporation may not waive privilege by disclosure); see also, e.g., Sprague v. Thorn Americas,

1 Inc., 129 F.3d 1355, 1371 (10th Cir. 1997) (citing Chen); Cell Therapeutics, Inc. v. Lash Group, Inc.,
2 Case No. C07-0310JLR, 2011 WL 1930603, *2 (W.D. Wash. May 18, 2011) (citing Chen); Milroy v.
3 Hanson, 875 F. Supp. 646, 648-50 (D. Neb. 1995) (holding the dissident director could not frustrate
4 majority decision of management regarding corporate attorney client privilege) (citing cases); In re
5 O.P.M. Leasing Servs., Inc., 13 B.R. 54, 57 (Bankr. S.D.N.Y. 1981), aff'd, 13 B.R. 64 (S.D.N.Y.
6 1981); Lane v. Sharp Packaging Sys., Inc., 640 N.W.2d 788, 802-03 (Wisc. 2002).

7 Given that the Committee has not authorized the distribution of the report or the waiver of the 8 privilege, the privilege is preserved notwithstanding these two incidents.

9 B. Mr. Greene's report, work papers and thoughts are protected under Rule 7026

10 Federal Rule of Bankruptcy Procedure 7026 provides a range of protections to prevent 11 production of Mr. Greene's work papers, report and thoughts.

12 --The court "must limit" discovery if it "is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative"; it "can 13 be obtained from some other source that is more convenient, less burdensome, or less expensive"; if 14 the movant "has had ample opportunity to obtain the information"; or if the burden "of the proposed 15 discovery outweighs its likely benefit." Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(2)(C)(i)-(iii).

16 All these circumstances apply. As discussed above, the Trustee is a licensed certified public
17 accountant and experienced trustee in commercial bankruptcies. The Trustee has undertaken his own 18 investigation and analysis of Debtor and its records, including meetings with Debtor's principal and 19 staff. It is unreasonably cumulative or duplicative for the Trustee, after having made his own inquiry, 20 to now seek to depose the Committee's accountant to learn exactly what the Committee considered.
21 It also is readily apparent that the information can be obtained from somewhere else, namely, Debtor, 22 based on the Trustee's discussions with debtor's principal and staff. The Trustee's existing work is 23 more convenient and less burdensome than the Trustee's requested review of the work done for the 24 Committee. The Trustee also had ample opportunity to obtain the same information from Debtor.
25 The Trustee should not be allowed to simply delay and forcibly take possession of the Committee's 26 information. When evaluating the matter, the burden of releasing the document—which may 27 terminate any state-law privileges otherwise applicable but for the federal nature of the bankruptcy—
28 far outweighs the benefit to the Trustee in seeking to double-check his information. Cf. In re

1 Tidewater Group, Inc., 65 B.R. 179, 183 (Bankr. N.D. Ga. 1986) (applying privilege in context of 2 state-law claims).

3 --The movant “may not discovery documents and tangible things that are prepared in 4 anticipation of litigation or for trial,” unless the movant “has substantial need for the materials to 5 prepare its case and cannot, without undue hardship, obtain their substantial equivalent by other
6 means.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(3)(ii). “Materials prepared in anticipation of litigation by or for a 7 party, by any representative of that party, are protected, regardless of whether the representative is 8 acting for the lawyer.” Boyer v. Gildea, 257 F.R.D. 488, 491 (N.D. Ind. 2009), citing Caremark, Inc.
9 v. Affiliated Computer Servs., Inc., 195 F.R.D. 610, 615 (N.D. Ill. 2000); see United States v. Nobles, 10 422 U.S. 225, 238-39 (1975).

11 Even if the movant can show substantial need for the papers, the responding party “need not 12 disclose those parts of documents which reflect the mental impressions, conclusions, opinions or 13 legal theories of its attorney or other representative concerning the litigation.” 10 Collier on 14 Bankruptcy ¶ 7026.03 & n.13 (Alan N. Resnick & Henry J. Sommer eds., 16th ed. 2011). “Mental 15 impressions, conclusions, legal theories or opinions are provided special protection under the work
16 product doctrine. This information can be discovered only in discovered in rare or extraordinary 17 circumstances.” Steven S. Gensler, Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 523 & nn.177-78 (3d ed.
18 2007), citing in part Upjohn Co. v. United States, 449 U.S. 383, 400 (1981), and Hickman v. Taylor, 19 329 U.S. 495, 512 (1947); see, e.g., ISI Corp. v. United States, 503 F.2d 558, 559 (9th Cir. 1974) (per 20 curiam) (holding no reversible error when trial court refused to compel answers requiring disclosure 21 of witness’s privileged opinions, conclusions and reasoning).

22 The Trustee seeks to compel disclosure of Mr. Greene’s report and work papers, and to 23 depose him about his opinions in this case. The Trustee cannot do so under the Federal Rules of 24 Civil Procedure incorporated in the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, and affirming by the 25 U.S. Supreme Court. The Trustee does not have substantial need for the materials to prepare its case.
26 This is not a case where Mr. Polhill has passed or refused to communicate with the Trustee. The 27 exact opposite has occurred: Mr. Polhill remains in possession of Debtor’s books and records, and 28 has met with the Trustee to discuss the business operations before and after the bankruptcy. The

1 Trustee does is not prohibited from, and does not face an undue hardship, continuing his inquiry in to 2 Debtor's conduct.

3 --The movant "may not, by interrogatories or deposition, discovery facts known or opinions
4 held by" a non-testifying expert, unless the movant shows "exceptional circumstances under which it
5 is impracticable for the party to obtain facts or opinions on the same subject by other means." Fed.
6 R. Civ. P. 26(b)(4)(D)(ii). This case not reached the point where the Committee must decided 7 whether to call Mr. Greene to testify and/or designate him an expert witness. Based on his 8 background provided in his employment application, he undoubtedly is qualified to speak as an 9 expert in this case. But until he is designated as a testifying expert, he is not subject to discovery of 10 his opinions. The Trustee does not face exceptional circumstances that prevent him from making his 11 own determination, since he has received access to Debtor's records, principal and staff.

12 --The court may for good cause issue a protective order to protect a party or person from 13 undue burden, by forbidding the disclosure or discovery. Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c)(1)(A). The Court 14 should prohibit the production of Mr. Greene's report and any work papers, and prohibit his 15 testimony of concerning his thoughts, opinions, or evaluations of the Debtor.

Re: In the Matter of American Pacific Financial Corp. (LA-3944)
Our Matter No. 30916.1

Dear Mr. Blau,

I am responding to the your letter and subpoena dated May 31, 2011, received via email on May 31, 2011, and via UPS on June 2, 2011. My firm, as you know, is counsel to the Official Committee of the Unsecured Creditors in the bankruptcy proceedings, In re American Pacific Financial Corp., Case No. BK-S-10-27855-BAM (Bankr. D. Nev.).

Your subpoena requests the following: "The report prepared by McGovern & Greene LLP on behalf of the Committee of Unsecured Creditors, as identified in Docket No. 256 filed in In re: American Pacific Financial Corporation, Case No. BK-S-10-27855-BAM."

I have reviewed Docket No. 256, which is entitled "Response of the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors to Ex Parte Motion to File Supplemental Declaration of Paul Hazell in Support of Motion for Appointment of Trustee Under Seal."

The report which you seek is 84 pages. I am in possession of a copy, and it is marked by my office with the Bates Stamps of UCC 0001 to UCC 0084 in response to your subpoena.

The report, however, is not attached. The committee objects to the subpoena. Fed. R. Civ. P. 81(a)(5), inc. by ref. Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(c)(2)(B). The committee objects on the grounds that it is not properly served, Fed. R. Civ. P. 81(a)(5), inc. by ref. Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(b)(1); the location of production is not proper, Fed. R. Civ. P. 81(a)(5), inc. by ref. Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(b)(2)(B); and the lack of a substantial need for the report, Fed. R. Civ. P. 81(a)(5), inc. by ref. Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(c)(3)(C). Additionally, the report is protected by the attorney-client privilege, the attorney-work product privilege, and the accountant-client privilege under Chapter 49 of the Nevada Revised Statutes and/or related federal protections. Fed. R. Civ. P. 81(a)(5), inc. by ref. Fed. R. Civ. P. 45(d)(2)(A) and Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b). I advised you and Ms. Moyed of the privileges during a phone call during May 2011 when I declined your request for the committee to voluntarily produce the report. Those objections are evidenced by Docket No. 256 identified in your subpoena. The committee continues to assert the privileges as a proper basis to decline to provide the report in response to your subpoena.

I am providing the following information requested by your letter, which would constitute the committee's privilege log:

1. Author: McGovern & Greene, LLP, Certified Public Accountants & Consultants, by Craig Greene, CPA, in consultation with Louis M. Bubala III, Esq. (unidentified as author in report).
2. Date: January 26, 2011
3. Subject Matter: Research and evaluation of American Pacific Financial Corporation for the committee to inform the committee concerning its role in the bankruptcy case.
4. Name of the person who has the item now: Craig Greene, CPA.
5. Names of everyone who ever had the item or a copy of it, and the names of everyone who was told the item's contents: Craig Greene, CPA, as retained accountant to the committee; Louis M. Bubala III, Esq., and Janet L. Chubb, Esq., and associated staff of Armstrong Teasdale, LLP, as retained counsel to the committee; the individual committee members: Thomas L. Davis, Paul Hazell, Joseph C. McCoy, Rosemary Nguyen, Raj K. Sindher, David Sladek, Nick Testa and Jerome F. Wall. It also would appear that Mr. Hazell's personal attorney, Lenard Schwartz, may have seen the report, based on the motion he filed seeking to file the report under seal (to which the committee filed the reference response as Docket No. 256). Per my prior discussions with you and Ms. Moyed, I also understand that you received an anonymous mailing of what you believed was the report, and for which you returned to me without review of the document, as I understood consistent with your legal and ethical obligations. Mr. Greene, primarily, and I had discussions with Larry Polhill and American Pacific Financial Corporation's attorney, Kaaran Thomas, Esq., in developing the report and making further inquiries based upon the report.
6. The reason the report is not produced: As stated above, the committee has objected to the subpoena.
7. The attorney and client involved: Louis M. Bubala III, Esq., primarily, and Janet L. Chubb, Esq., of Armstrong Teasdale LLP are counsel to their client, the Official Committee of Unsecured Creditors in the bankruptcy case of American Pacific Financial Corporation.

Marc, I hope you appreciate the privilege issue that we previously discussed. I am available to talk about the issue, but at this point the committee has declined to waive the privileges.

Sincerely,
